The Silents Majority website note:

“Acting was a family affair for the celebrated Costellos. Father Maurice, mother Ruth and their two young daughters, Dolores (1903-1979) and Helene (1902-1957), occasionally appeared in films together in the early 1910s. The daughters, of course, grew up to become stunning leading ladies in the 1920s.”

Halliwell’s Filmgoer’s Companion entries:

Dolores:

“Gentle American silent screen heroine (1905-1979); married John Barrymore.”

Helene:

“American silent screen leading lady (1904-1957).”
