Titles: 1      Sources: 0      Stills: 1

Born: US

She had a purely token role in one of Elvis Presley's lame happy-go-lucky vehicles called (for no accountable reason) "FOLLOW THAT DREAM". Presley plays the slow-witted son of a hillbilly family who decide to claim "homesteader rights" on a stretch of virgin Florida coast. Pam plays an orphan with the improbable name of Ariadne, unofficially adopted by Presley's pa, as were the twin boys. We can only assume the rascally twins must have buried her head-first in the sand, because she's mysteriously absent from the bulk of the film, only resurfacing for the heartwarming custody hearing finale, where Pa and Presley get the better of a malicious female "welfare worker". Nothing else is known of her.
